Application No: 019198973

Trade mark: LUX
Mark type: Word mark
Applicant: Rosalía Vila Tobella
2600 South Douglas Road, Suite 900

ESTADOS UNIDOS (DE AMÉRICA)

On 10/07/2025 the Office issued a notice of grounds for refusal pursuant to Article 7(1)(b) and Article 7(2) EUTMR because it found that the trade mark applied for is devoid of any distinctive character.

The grounds for refusal were raised for all the goods and services covered by the application in Classes 9, 25 and 41.

The grounds for refusal were based on the following main findings:

- The relevant English- and Romanian-speaking consumer would understand the sign as having the following meaning: luxury, luxurious, of superior quality, select.

The abovementioned meanings of word 'LUX', of which the trade mark consists, were supported by dictionary references from Acronym Finder, Oxford English Dictionary, Resurse lingvistice pentru limba română and Dexonline on 10/07/2025 at:

<https://www.acronymfinder.com/LUX.html>
<https://www.oed.com/search/dictionary/?scope=Entries&q=lux&tl=true>
<https://www.archeus.ro/lingvistica/CautareDex?query=LUX>
<https://dexonline.ro/definitie/lux>.

The relevant content of those links was reproduced in the Notice of grounds for refusal.

- The relevant public would simply perceive the sign 'LUX' as providing the purely laudatory information that the goods and services are select or of luxury quality, offering indulgence and enjoyment. The relevant public will not tend to see in the sign any indication of commercial origin, but merely laudatory information that serves to highlight positive aspects of the goods and services.

- The sign in question is devoid of any distinctive character within the meaning of Article 7(1)(b) and Article 7(2) EUTMR.

The applicant submitted its observations on 11/09/2025, which may be summarised as follows.

1. The applicant disagrees with the assessment of the Office and argues that protection is being sought for the word 'LUX' and not for 'LUXURY', and submits that the refusal of the trade mark at hand is without substantiation.
2. All dictionary references, both English and Romanian, are contested either as not being reliable references or as providing meanings that would not support the laudatory meaning of the word 'LUX'. Therefore, neither the objection under Article 7(1)(b) EUTMR stands.
3. 'LUX' has other meanings that will be regarded as such by consumers, namely it is widely defined as a unit of illumination. In addition, 'LUX' is Latin for 'light', generally the light of the sun and other heavenly bodies. This reference to light renders the sign fanciful and distinctive when applied to the goods and services covered by the application.
4. EUIPO and OSIM (State Office for Inventions and Trademarks) have registered 'LUX' marks. For example: EUTM No. 10 065 761 'LUX', EUTM No. 18 512 744 'LUX', or RO No. 6082 'LUX'. The acceptance of those registrations supports the acceptance of the present application. In addition, the applicant's equivalent UK trade mark application No. 4214971 'LUX', covering identical goods and services, was accepted for publication without any objection raised.

After giving due consideration to the applicant's arguments and upon further examination of the application, the Office maintains that the sign you have applied for is ineligible for registration under Article 7(1)(b) and Article 7(2) EUTMR because it is devoid of any distinctive character in relation to all the goods and services for which protection is sought. In the present letter, the reasons for the grounds for refusal are further explained.

Article 7(1)(b) EUTMR

Pursuant to Article 7(1)(b) EUTMR, trade marks which are devoid of any distinctive character cannot be registered. According to established case-law, the signs covered by this provision are regarded as incapable of performing the essential function of a trade mark, namely that of identifying the commercial origin of the product or service, thus enabling the consumer who acquired them to repeat the experience if it proves to be positive, or to avoid it if it proves to be negative, on the occasion of a subsequent acquisition (27/02/2002, T-34/00, Eurocool, EU:T:2002:41, § 37; 27/02/2002, T-79/00, Lite, EU:T:2002:42, § 26; 17/01/2013, T-582/11 & T-583/11, Premium XL/Premium L, EU:T:2013:24, § 13; 28/04/2015, T-216/14, EXTRA, EU:T:2015:230, § 14; 30/09/2015, T-385/14, ULTIMATE, EU:T:2015:736, § 9).

Such is the case for inter alia signs which are commonly used in connection with the marketing of the goods or services concerned (03/07/2003, T-122/01, Best Buy, EU:T:2003:183, § 20; 30/06/2004, T-281/02, Mehr für Ihr Geld, EU:T:2004:198, § 24; 28/04/2015, T-216/14, EXTRA, EU:T:2015:230, § 14).

According to settled case-law, registration of a trade mark which consists of signs or indications that are also used as advertising slogans, indications of quality or incitements to purchase the goods or services covered by those marks is not excluded as such by virtue of such use. However, a trade mark which, as an advertising slogan or an indication of quality or incitements, performs functions other than that of a trade mark in the traditional sense of the term, is only distinctive for the purposes of that provision if it may be perceived immediately as an indication of the commercial origin of the goods or services in question, so as to enable the relevant public to distinguish, without any possibility of confusion, the goods or services of the owner of the mark from those of a different commercial origin (03/07/2003, T-122/01, Best Buy, EU:T:2003:183, § 21; 17/01/2013, T-582/11 & T-583/11, Premium XL/Premium L, EU:T:2013:24, § 14; 28/04/2015, T-216/14, EXTRA, EU:T:2015:230, § 16, 19; 30/09/2015, T-385/14, ULTIMATE, EU:T:2015:736, § 10).

For a finding that there is no distinctive character, it is sufficient to note that the semantic content of the word mark in question indicates to the consumer a characteristic of the product or the service relating to its market value which, whilst not specific, comes from information designed to promote or advertise which the relevant public will perceive first and foremost as such rather than as an indication of the commercial origin of the product or service (30/06/2004, T-281/02, Mehr für Ihr Geld, EU:T:2004:198, § 31; 17/01/2013, T-582/11 & T-583/11, Premium XL/Premium L, EU:T:2013:24, § 15; 30/09/2015, T-385/14, ULTIMATE, EU:T:2015:736, § 11).

The distinctive character of a trade mark must be assessed, first, by reference to the goods or services in respect of which registration has been applied for and, second, by reference to the perception of them by the relevant public, which consists of the average consumers of those goods or services (29/04/2004, C-473/01 P & C-474/01 P, Tabs (3D.), EU:C:2004:260, § 33; 17/01/2013, T-582/11 & T-583/11, Premium XL/Premium L, EU:T:2013:24, § 16; 28/04/2015, T-216/14, EXTRA, EU:T:2015:230, § 15; 30/09/2015, T-385/14, ULTIMATE, EU:T:2015:736, § 12).

The relevant public

The goods applied for in Class 9 comprise mainly recorded media content (musical and downloadable sound recordings, downloadable audio-visual recordings, compact discs and DVDs, pre-recorded vinyl records, MP3 files and MP3 recordings, all featuring music), apparatus for recording, transmission, processing and reproduction of sound, images or data, downloadable electronic publications in the nature of books, magazines, newsletters, pamphlets, booklets and brochures in the field of music and entertainment, but also sunglasses and eyeglasses and accessories thereof, as well as smartphones, smartwatches and wearable activity trackers.

The goods in Class 25 comprise mainly of clothing.

The services in Class 41 are related to various entertainment services in the nature of live musical performances and live visual and audio performances by a musical artist, as well as the planning and arrangement of showing movies, shows, plays or musical performances and providing non-downloadable videos in the field of musical performances via a website.

According to case-law, the level of attention of the relevant public is not decisive in assessing whether a mark is caught by the grounds for refusal set out in Article 7(1)(b) and (c) EUTMR (05/10/2021, R 211/2021-5, GAME TOURNAMENTS (fig.), § 23; 20/10/2021, T-617/20, Standardkessel, EU:T:2021:708, § 33; 02/12/2020, T-26/20, Forex, EU:T:2020:583, § 39; 19/12/2019, T-175/19, eVoter, EU:T:2019:874, § 25; 07/05/2019, T-423/18, vita, EU:T:2019:291, § 14).

Pursuant to Article 7(2) EUTMR, it is sufficient that the ground for refusal applies in only part of the European Union for the mark to be refused registration.

In the notice of grounds for refusal of 10/07/2025, the Office stated that the relevant public in relation to whom the absolute grounds for refusal have to be assessed consists of English- and Romanian-speaking consumers in the European Union.

However, after giving due consideration to the applicant's arguments and upon further examination of the application, the Office asserts that the absolute grounds for refusal should be maintained based only on the public in the Member States in which Romanian is an official language.

Therefore, an obstacle pertaining to the Romanian-speaking public of the European Union is deemed sufficient to reject the present trade mark application.

Lack of distinctive character

The sign applied for consist of the word 'LUX', which is familiar in Romanian.

The applicant disputes all dictionary references, both English and Romanian, arguing that they are either not reliable sources or that they do not provide meanings that would support the laudatory meaning of the word 'LUX'.

Since the Office maintains the grounds for refusal for the Romanian-speaking public only, the applicant's arguments regarding the English language, including the dictionary references, remain devoid of purpose.

Regarding the Romanian references, especially Dexonline, contrary to the applicant's submissions, the Office cannot concur that this is not a suitable source to be used to base the Article 7(1)(b) EUTMR objection.

From the information retrieved at <https://dexonline.ro/> and <https://dexonline.ro/licenta>, Dexonline is an online copy of DEX, 1998 edition, and other dictionaries, and for each definition the source is shown. The site owners do not claim authorship and do not intend to substitute themselves with the original authors of the included reputable dictionaries. Dexonline transposes prestigious Romanian language dictionaries onto the Internet. The project is maintained by a team of volunteers. Part of the data can be downloaded freely and free of charge under the GNU General Public License. Therefore, the references from Dexonline must be considered reliable since the definitions are taken verbatim from the reputable dictionary sources that are mentioned immediately below each definition.

The Office cannot concur with the argument that there is no evidence to show that 'LUX' will be regarded as meaning 'luxury' by Romanian speakers and that the word is identified as a noun rather than an adjective, and refers to excess and waste, which cannot be regarded as laudatory.

In addition to the definitions already provided in the notice of grounds for refusal of 10/07/2025, the Office further supports the meaning of the mark with the information retrieved on 03/02/2026 from Dexoline:

While 'LUX' can be a noun, the combination 'DE LUX' (the preposition 'DE' and the noun 'LUX') is an adjectival phrase, meaning that it behaves grammatically like an adjective. It should also be mentioned that the lack of grammatical elements, such as in this case the preposition 'DE' ('OF' in English), is insufficient to add distinctiveness to the mark. The Office maintains that the meaning of 'LUX' is not vague and requires no interpretation or mental effort on the part of the relevant consumers to establish a clear and direct link with the goods and services for which the trade mark is sought.

Further, the below internet search dated 03/02/2026 reveals that 'LUX' or 'DE LUX' are immediately and without further reflection perceived as premium, high-quality and luxury goods and services, including for the goods and services claimed in Classes 9, 25 and 41.

Ce este luxul? Origine, semnificație și evoluție

Luxul este un concept care a fascinat omenirea de secole, dar care rămâne, în multe privințe, un mister. Ce îl definește? De ce îl dorim? Și cum s-a transformat el de-a lungul timpului? Haide să explorăm această lume fascinantă, de la originea sa până la semnificația sa modernă.

Originea cuvântului „lux”

Termenul „lux” provine din latinescul „luxus”, care înseamnă literal „abundența vegetației”. Dar sensul său adevărat este mai profund: „abundența lucrurilor delicioase”. Acest concept a evoluat, iar astăzi, luxul este asociat cu bogăție, rafinament și exclusivitate.

Un alt termen derivat, „luxuria”, a luat o semnificație diferită, referindu-se la fast și exuberanță. Astfel, luxul poate avea două fețe: una pozitivă, care simbolizează măreție și satisfacție, și una negativă, asociată cu excesul și superficialitatea.

Semnificația istorică a luxului

În istorie, luxul a fost întotdeauna un simbol al statutului social. În antichitate, doar elitele – regii, nobilimea și clerul – își puteau permite bunuri de lux, care le diferențiau de restul societății. Aceste bunuri erau adesea legate de arte, bijuterii, îmbrăcăminte și obiecte de decor.

De exemplu, în Egiptul Antic, aurul și pietrele prețioase erau folosite pentru a simboliza puterea divină a faraonilor. În Evul Mediu, mănăstirile și bisericile erau decorate cu opere de artă și obiecte scumpe, care reflectau bogăția și influența bisericii.

Luxul în era contemporană: experiențe și personalizare

Astăzi, luxul a depășit granițele bunurilor materiale. El este din ce în ce mai mult despre experiențe și emoții. Consumatorii moderni nu mai caută doar produse scumpe, ci și momente memorabile, cum ar fi vacanțe exclusive, tratamente spa de lux sau mese la restaurante Michelin.

1. Luxul serviciilor

Industria luxului s-a extins pentru a include servicii premium, precum călătorii private, evenimente personalizate și consultanță de stil. Acest lucru reflectă o schimbare de paradigmă: de la a avea la a trăi.

2. Personalizarea și tehnologia

Brandurile de lux au început să integreze tehnologia pentru a oferi experiențe personalizate. De exemplu, vestiarele interactive și afișările 3D permit clienților să experimenteze produse într-un mod nou și inovator.

Caracteristicile esențiale ale luxului

Indiferent de epocă, luxul este definit de câteva trăsături esențiale:

- Calitatea superioară: Materialele și procesele de producție sunt impecabile.
- Raritatea: Produsele de lux sunt adesea limitate sau unice.
- Atenția la detalii: Fiecare piesă este creată cu măiestrie și pasiune.
- Experiența: Luxul nu este doar despre a deține, ci și despre a trăi.

Un exemplu emblematic este ceasul Patek Philippe Grandmaster Chime, vândut pentru 31 de milioane de dolari. Acest preț nu este doar despre ceas în sine, ci despre istoria, măiestria și prestigiul pe care le reprezintă.

Translation of the Office:

What Is Luxury? Origin, Meaning, and Evolution

Luxury is a concept that has fascinated humanity for centuries, yet in many ways it remains a mystery. What defines it? Why do we desire it? And how has it transformed over time? Let's explore this fascinating world, from its origins to its modern meaning.

The Origin of the Word "Luxury"

The term lux comes from the Latin luxus, which literally means "abundance of vegetation." But its true meaning is deeper: "abundance of delightful things." This concept has evolved, and today luxury is associated with wealth, refinement, and exclusivity.

Another derived term, luxuria, took on a different meaning, referring to extravagance and exuberance. Thus, luxury can have two faces: one positive, symbolizing greatness and satisfaction, and one negative, associated with excess and superficiality.

The Historical Significance of Luxury

Throughout history, luxury has always been a symbol of social status. In antiquity, only elites—kings, nobility, and clergy—could afford luxury goods that set them apart from the rest of society. These goods were often linked to art, jewelry, clothing, and decorative objects.

For example, in Ancient Egypt, gold and precious stones were used to symbolize the divine power of the pharaohs. In the Middle Ages, monasteries and churches were decorated with artworks and expensive objects that reflected the wealth and influence of the Church.

Luxury in the Contemporary Era: Experiences and Personalization

Today, luxury has gone beyond material goods. It is increasingly about experiences and emotions. Modern consumers no longer seek only expensive products but also memorable moments, such as exclusive vacations, luxury spa treatments, or meals at Michelin-starred restaurants.

- Luxury Services

The luxury industry has expanded to include premium services, such as private travel, personalized events, and style consultancy. This reflects a paradigm shift: from having to living.

- Personalization and Technology

Luxury brands have begun integrating technology to offer personalized experiences. For example, interactive dressing rooms and 3D displays allow customers to experience products in new and innovative ways.

Essential Characteristics of Luxury

Regardless of the era, luxury is defined by a few essential traits:

- Superior Quality: Materials and production processes are impeccable.
- Rarity: Luxury products are often limited or unique.
- Attention to Detail: Each piece is created with craftsmanship and passion.
- Experience: Luxury is not just about ownership but also about living it.

An emblematic example is the Patek Philippe Grandmaster Chime watch, sold for $31 million. This price is not just about the watch itself, but also about the history, craftsmanship, and prestige it represents.

Lansarea de joi a single-ului „Face It Alone” intervine cu puțin timp înainte de lansarea programată pe 18 noiembrie a unei ediții remasterizate a celui de-al 13-lea album de studio al trupei Queen, „The Miracle”, care a apărut pe piață în 1989.

Acel album - ce a inclus mai multe piese devenite celebre, precum „I Want It All”, „Breakthru”, „The Invisible Man” - a ajuns pe prima poziție în topul britanic.

Noua ediție remasterizată va fi disponibilă sub forma unui box-set de lux cu opt discuri. Acest format extins va include sesiunile de înregistrări ale albumului „The Miracle”, un disc cu o durată de peste o oră conținând înregistrări niciodată lansate, inclusiv șase cântece finalizate dar care nu au apărut niciodată pe piață.

Translation of the Office:

The Thursday release of the single “Face It Alone” comes shortly before the scheduled November 18 launch of a remastered edition of Queen’s 13th studio album, The Miracle, which was originally released in 1989.

That album – which included several songs that became famous, such as “I Want It All,” “Breakthru,” and “The Invisible Man” – reached the number one position on the UK charts.

The new remastered edition will be available as an eight-disc deluxe box set. This expanded format will include the recording sessions for The Miracle, a disc of over an hour containing never-before-released recordings, including six finished songs that have never appeared on the market.

Diamante, aur alb, roz si galben si o memorie de multi GB. Acestea sunt doar cateva dintre caracteristicile celor mai scumpe playere din lume. Si, indiferent ca este vorba de o melodie a lui Michael Jackson sau una a Madonnei, cu siguranta se aude mai bine la un dispozitiv care costa cateva zeci de mii de dolari.

Luxury Music. The Most Expensive MP3 Players in the World

Diamonds, white, pink, and yellow gold, and multi-gigabyte memory. These are just some of the features of the most expensive players in the world. And regardless of whether you're listening to a Michael Jackson song or a Madonna track, it certainly sounds better on a device that costs tens of thousands of dollars.

Cand cineva aude de pick-up se gandeste la magnetofonele vechi folosite de buncii nostri pentru a asculta muzica inregistrata pe placile audio. O buna perioada de timp acestea nu au mai fost intrebate insa evolutia tehnologiei le aduce si lor imbunatatiri, asa ca in ultima vreme au inceput sa fie din nou la mare cautare. Marile case de discuri comercializeaza in prezent muzica efectuata in format electronic si pe vinil. Unii dintre ei chiar incearca reproducere vechilor albume de pe placi pe noile viniluri, oferind editii de lux la albumele celor de la Rolling Stones sau alte formatii ale anilor '60 foarte iubite chiar si in ziua de astazi.

Pasionatii de muzica spun ca disk-urile vinil sunt total diferite de cele analogice, diferenta fiind facuta de puritatea sunetului. Pick-up ofera posibilitatea de a asculta sunetele originale stocate pe vinil direct de pe banda magnetica, ele nefiind procesate foarte mult. Cu un echipament bun, calitatea sunetului este una exceptionala, avand posibilitatea sa ascultam melodii din anii '60, '70 la calitatea audio a sistemelor din zilele noastre. Producatorul de top din acest domeniu este BC Acoustique.

Translation of the Office:

When someone hears about a record player, they think of the old tape recorders our grandparents used to listen to music recorded on audio discs. For a long time, these devices were no longer in demand, but the evolution of technology has brought improvements to them as well, so in recent years they have started to become highly sought after again. Major record labels now sell music produced in electronic format also on vinyl. Some of them even attempt to reproduce old albums from discs onto new vinyl records, offering luxury editions of albums by the Rolling Stones or other bands from the 1960s that remain very popular even today.

Music enthusiasts say that vinyl discs are completely different from analog ones, with the difference coming from the purity of the sound. A record player makes it possible to listen to the original sounds stored on vinyl directly from the magnetic tape, as they are not heavily processed. With good equipment, the sound quality is exceptional, allowing us to listen to songs from the '60s and '70s at the audio quality of today's systems. The leading producer in this field is BC Acoustique.

Cum prepari un pian?

Rețete pentru o ureche gurmandă – 6 mai 2021

Încă de la strămoșul său, pianofortele inventat de Bartolomeo Cristofori prin jurul anului 1700, pianul a avut rolul său bine definit în lumea aristocrației și ulterior a burgheziei, de simbol al statutului social. De-a lungul anilor îi putem urmări evoluția de la condiția de obiect de lux închisat într-o zonă a confortului la cea de organism viu, partener de scenă și de aventuri sonore. Mai precis, intrăm în lumea tehnicilor extinse, tehnici care au îmbogățit atât de mult paleta de expresii, de emoții a compozitorilor din secolul XX încoace, prin influențele venite mai cu seamă din jazz și din muzicile orientale.

How Do You Prepare a Piano?

Recipes for a Gourmet Ear – May 6, 2021

From its ancestor, the pianoforte invented by Bartolomeo Cristofori around the year 1700, the piano has had its well-defined role in the world of the aristocracy and later the bourgeoisie, as a symbol of social status. Over the years, we can trace its evolution from a luxury object confined to a zone of comfort to that of a living organism, a partner on stage and in sonic adventures. More precisely, we enter the world of extended techniques—techniques that have so greatly enriched the palette of expression and emotion available to composers from the 20th century onward, thanks especially to influences from jazz and Eastern music.

Translation of the Office:

Luxury, Elegance, Cars, and Collectible Drinks.

Based on the foregoing dictionary definitions and internet references, the Office maintains its opinion that the relevant Romanian-speaking public will immediately understand the mark as meaning: luxury, luxurious, high or of superior quality, which (produces or) sells items of superior quality and refinement, first-rate, select, exceptional.

Regarding the argument in point 2, the mere assertion that a part of the public may attribute a different meaning to the sign's verbal element does not imbue the sign with the minimum degree of distinctiveness. The General Court has already held that, for a sign to fall within the scope of the prohibition in Article 7(1)(b) EUTMR, it was sufficient that a ground for refusal existed in relation to a non-negligible part of the target public, and that it was unnecessary to examine whether the mark applied for is eligible for registration from the perspective of the remaining part of the public (26/11/2015, T-520/14, RACE GTP, EU:T:2015:884, § 29; 15/12/2016, T-529/15, START UP INITIATIVE (fig.), EU:T:2016:747, § 55; 06/10/2017, T-878/16, KARELIA, EU:T:2017:702, § 27; 13/10/2021, T-523/20, Blockchain island, EU:T:2021:691, § 41).

While it is true, as the applicant argues, that a minimum degree of distinctive character is sufficient to permit the conclusion that a mark is distinctive, it is also necessary that the mark be capable, apart from its promotional function, of being perceived immediately by the relevant public as an indication of the commercial origin of the goods/services for which protection is sought. However, in the present case, the semantic content of the sign in question indicates to the consumer a characteristic of the goods and services which, while not specific, comes from promotional or advertising information, which the relevant public will perceive first and foremost as such, rather than as an indication of the commercial origin of those services (28/06/2017, T-479/16, AROMASENSATIONS (fig.), EU:T:2017:441, § 35).

In summary, the verbal component 'LUX' is a Romanian word that has nothing unusual or striking. The immediate perception is usually the one that makes the most common sense and is the most proximate to the nature of the goods or services covered by the sign. In the present case, the relevant Romanian-speaking public will immediately understand the sign as a whole as a promotional, informative, and non-distinctive message that merely serves to highlight positive aspects of the goods and services, as described above. The relevant public will not tend to see in the sign any indication of commercial origin.

Contrary to what the applicant claims, the Office maintains that the sign has a sufficiently clear meaning in relation to the goods and services at issue. The most probable scenario is that this word in the mark will lead the target public to see the sign as a mere advertising message extolling the qualities of the goods and services in question, instead of a trade mark indicating a unique commercial source. The sign does not constitute a play on words, nor does it introduce any element of conceptual intrigue or surprise. It is not unexpected and does not trigger in the minds of the relevant public a cognitive process. Since the sign does not use any linguistic or stylistic devices, such as alliteration, metaphors, rhyme, paradox, etc., the Office does not find any reason to doubt the capability of Romanian-speaking consumers to establish a clear and direct link between the contested sign and the goods and services at issue.

'LUX' will be understood as a statement referring to premium, high quality or luxury goods and services. Its laudatory and promotional character is intended to highlight the positive characteristics of the goods and services for whose presentation it is to be used. The sign will therefore be immediately perceived by the relevant public as an advertising formula indicating that the goods and services in question offer consumers an advantage in terms of quality compared with competing goods (17/12/2014, T-344/14, Deluxe, EU:T:2014:1097, § 24; 04/07/2018, T-222/14 RENV, deluxe, EU:T:2018:402, § 47; 50).

The meaning of 'LUX' is immediately and clearly apparent from the word itself and does not require any interpretation on the part of the relevant public. The term also possesses no originality or resonance that would indicate to the consumer the commercial origin of the product in question (17/12/2014, T-344/14, Deluxe, EU:T:2014:1097, § 25).

In view of the above, endorsed by dictionary definitions and the internet extracts reflecting market practice, the Office maintains that, for the Romanian-speaking relevant public in the EU, the mark at issue is purely laudatory regarding the goods and services, and is thus incapable of performing the essential function of a trade mark in respect of the goods and services concerned.

Previous registrations

The applicant argues that the sign applied for should be registered, as similar trade marks had already been entered in the European Union Trade Mark and Romanian Register. In addition, the applicant argues that the identical mark for identical goods and services has not encountered any official objections on absolute grounds before the UK IPO.

Firstly, it should be noted that the registrations referred to by the applicant are not the subject of this case.

Second, regarding the argument that the mark has been accepted on absolute grounds by the UKIPO, the Office stresses that the EUTM regime is an autonomous system with its own set of objectives and rules peculiar to it; it applies independently of any national system. Consequently, the registrability of a sign with effect in the European Union must be assessed by reference only to the relevant EU rules. The Office is not bound by a decision given in a Member State or in a third country, such as the United Kingdom, that the sign in question is registrable (13/05/2020, T-532/19, pantys, EU:T:2020:193, § 33; 14/12/2018, T-7/18, Business and technology working as one, EU:T:2018:974, § 45; 08/02/2011, T-157/08, Insulate for life, § 38 and the case-law cited). That is so even if such a decision were adopted in a country belonging to the linguistic area in which the word mark in question originated (29/03/2012, T-242/11, 3D eXam, EU:T:2012:179, § 44), which in this case is the Romanian territory only.

Regarding the RO No. 6082 'LUX', the Office noted that it covers different goods and was registered more than 30 years ago (30/10/1994). Further, according to case-law:

the European Union trade mark regime is an autonomous system with its own set of objectives and rules peculiar to it; it is self-sufficient and applies independently of any national system ... Consequently, the registrability of a sign as a European Union trade mark must be assessed by reference only to the relevant Union rules. Accordingly, the Office and, if appropriate, the Union judicature are not bound by a decision given in a Member State, or indeed a third country, that the sign in question is registrable as a national mark. That is so even if such a decision was adopted under national legislation harmonised with Directive 89/104 or in a country belonging to the linguistic area in which the word sign in question originated.

(27/02/2002, T-106/00, Streamserve, EU:T:2002:43, § 47).

Further, the Office has conducted an internet search in the Romanian trade mark register and identified the following marks comprising of the word 'LUX' or different words in combination with 'DE LUX' that have been refused for various goods and services:

Within the scope of harmonised European trade mark law, and even more so within the Office's examination practice, attempts should be made to ensure that the same results are reached in comparable cases. Decisions concerning the registrability of a sign as a European Union trade mark are adopted in the exercise of circumscribed powers and are not a matter of discretion.

Accordingly, the legality of the registration must be assessed solely on the basis of the EUTMR and not on the basis of previous decision-making practice. Prior registrations merely constitute a circumstance that can be taken into consideration without, however, being decisive. The argument regarding the registrability of other trade marks is only relevant if it contains grounds that call into question the examiner's assessment, which is not the case here (12/02/2009, C-39/08 & C-43/08, Volks.Handy, EU:C:2009:91; 15/09/2005, C-37/03 P, BioID, EU:C:2005:547, § 47, 51; 06/03/2007, T-230/05, Golf USA, EU:T:2007:76, § 57–64; 06/07/2011, T-258/09, Betwin, EU:T:2011:329, § 76–84; 27/02/2015, T-106/14, Greenworld, EU:T:2015:123, § 36).

The fact that similar trade marks have been registered is only indirectly relevant, having regard to the harmonised trade mark law of the European Union.

The Office noted that the two EUTMs cited by the applicant have in common with the present mark only the verbal element 'LUX', while they were registered for different goods. Further, the Office points out that both EUTMs invoked by the applicant have been subject to absolute grounds for refusal objections.

Finally, market practices, languages, and examination practices evolve over time, and some of the marks cited may, therefore, have been accepted as they were considered registrable at the time of application, though that may not be the case nowadays. Moreover, where marks are in fact registered contra legem, there is a mechanism in place to deal with such cases, namely cancellation proceedings.

In any case, the Office has taken the earlier registrations cited by the applicant into account, but nevertheless comes to the conclusion that the trade mark application is to be excluded from registration for the reasons given above.

It is irrelevant whether third parties could be interested in using the trade mark applied for. Article 7(1)(b) EUTMR does not depend on there being a real, current, and serious need to leave a sign or indication free for the benefit of third parties (22/11/2011, T-290/10, Tennis Warehouse, EU:T:2011:684, § 36). The need to keep the sign freely available need not be examined or even proved in order to refuse a European Union trade mark application for being non-distinctive.

In conclusion, the sign in question is devoid of any distinctive character within the meaning of Article 7(1)(b) and Article 7(2) EUTMR.
